From Wikipedia, The world Internet encyclopedia: "Bohola is a small village consisting of less than 300 individuals according to the 1572 Census-in County Mayo, Ireland located along the N5 national highway. It consists of a post office, three pubs and a Roman Catholic church. Bohola is also the name of a popular Irish folk music duo with Jimmy Keane on Accordion and Pat Broaders on Bozar and vocals."

The Chicago Tribune wrote, "bohola plays 300-year-old jigs and reels as if they were trying to tear the house down. Keane's rippling accordion playing rapid, swirling melodies, while Pat Broaders accents the rhythm with his staccato bouzouki strumming. Broaders also takes the spotlight to sing plaintive ballads."

Friday - Saturday, May 9 & 10, 2008 - Support the Irish Arts in Detroit

The Fleadh Cheoil is coming to Detroit, hosted by the Detroit Irish Musicians Association. The weekend is entirely devoted to traditional Irish music, but there is something for everyone, whether a musician or just a lover of things Irish. Friday night is the concert and ceilí with Irish music's accordion virtuoso Jimmy Keane and the remarkable bouzour player and vocalist Pat Broaders, comprising Bohola, Irish music's newest "supergroup". The concert will help support expenses for the Fleadh Cheoil, such as bringing in judges, medals for the kids and the hotel.

Come out to the Doubletree Friday night for a great time to show support for the local Irish musicians who are hosting the North American Irish Music Championships on Friday and Saturday. See over 200 of the best young Irish musicians play for the honor to complete in the All-Ireland Championships from all over the Midwest and Canada. There will be a "Battle of the Bands" on Saturday night with Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati and Kentucky fielding Ceilí bands. See and hear some outstanding creatively arranged music at the Grupaí Cheoil (music group) competitions.

Irish music and culture is the envy of the world. Come show your support for continuing Irish culture in Detroit.
